LONG BEACH, CA – April 4, 2011 – Windes & McClaughry Accountancy Corporation, a leading Southern California accounting and consulting firm with 85 years in business, today announced the winner of its new Windes & McClaughry Corporate Gallery Award.

Twice a year, the Windes & McClaughry Corporate Gallery Award is presented to graduate students in the Studio Arts Program at California State University, Long Beach. The selection committee includes Windes personnel, in collaboration with an art jury, which includes local artists, curators, and art professionals. Artwork is displayed for six months in the firm's headquarters lobby.

Robert Pokorny has been chosen as the recipient of the inaugural award. “Windes has a long-standing tradition of community involvement and this award is a way to acknowledge the wealth of artistic creativity our city has to offer,” says John Di Carlo, managing partner of Windes & McClaughry Accountancy Corporation. Our intent is to actively encourage and support art students and their efforts. Their significant works of art should be appreciated as part of our corporate setting to enhance, beautify, and inspire. Robert’s remarkable painting, titled The Deluge, is displayed in our lobby, and we welcome our visitors to view his work. It’s a very sophisticated, vibrant, and complex work of art and many will appreciate the careful consideration Robert has put into this piece.”

Pokorny, whose works have been included in a multitude of shows in the United States, is a resident of Long Beach and will earn his masters of fine art in May 2011. "It is an honor to receive the Windes & McClaughry Corporate Gallery Award," says Pokorny. “Long Beach has a really strong arts community and I'm really happy to see Windes & McClaughry bring some attention to the arts and recognizing the strong graduate program at CSULB."
